Russian Fleet Has Been Located, But Where
Are The Japanese War Vessels?

WHEN WILL GREAT FIGHT COME?

Russian Vessels Are Maneuvering, But The Islanders
Have Not Yet Shown Their Hand.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Singapore, April 10.—The British steamer Radnorshire, arrived today, reports at one-forty yesterday they sighted the Baltic fleet several miles from Pulauomar at one of the Anamba group of islands, about one hundred and fifty miles northeast of Singapore. The fleet was proceeding toward Pulo Marat. The Radnorshire also saw four warships, apparently Japanese, off Cape St. James at French Cochon, China, on April 7th.

Lloyd's Report
London, April 10.—A dispatch to Lloyd's from Singapore says the steamer Gregory appears just arrived there and reports it passed the Russian fleet at one a. m. today, anchored twenty miles northeast of Manik, one of the Anamba islands. There is no confirmation of the report that Rojstvenski is not with the squadron.

Later Word
Batavia, Island of Java, April 10.—A Russian squadron has been sighted near Muntok. It is expected to arrive here today. Nothing has been seen here of the Japanese squadron.

Just the Dutch
Batavia, April 10.—The fleet, sighted off Muntok proved to be a Dutch squadron which left its former anchorage under sealed orders, and is now steaming north.

Singapore, Straits Settlement, April 10.—Vice Admiral Rojstvenski's heaviest fighting ships, it is now declared, were not with the fleet that passed Singapore Saturday and their whereabouts is totally unknown.

The missing ships are the battle-ships Kniaz Souvaroff, Alexander III, Borodino and Orel, with their complement of cruisers and torpedo-boat destroyers.

There were fifty vessels in the fleet which passed Singapore, as follows: Battleships—Sissol Veliky and Oleg. Cruisers—Admiral Nachimoff, Dmitri Donskoi, Aurora, Izumrud, Jemtsching, Almaz, Russ, Anadyr, Furst Bismarck, Kaiserin Maria Theresa, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Kaiser Friedrich, Rion.

Seven torpedo-boat destroyers.

Sail Under Two Flags.
All the foregoing were sailing under the naval flag. Under the commercial flag were the following: Volunteer steamers—Voronez, Kief, Yaroslav, Tambov, Vladimir and Orel. Russian Navigation company's steamers—Meteor, Jupiter and Mercury. East Asiatic company's steamers—Korea and Kaitai.

North Battle company's steamer Kniaz Gortchakoff.

One repair ship.

Sixteen colliers.

Sailor Is Rescued at Sea.
A French steamer arrived here, having on board a Russian sailor who had fallen overboard from the cruiser Admiral Nachimoff. He was picked up by the steamer off Malacca, after he had been in the water for twelve hours.

On Way to Saigon.
Hongkong, April 10.—It is learned on good authority that the Russian warships that passed Singapore are making for Saigon, French Cochon China, where they will remain for several days. M. Beau, governor general of Cochon, China, delayed his departure.

MORMON LEADERS LAUD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Son of The Head of The Church Has Faith In
The Chief Executive

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Salt Lake City, Utah, April 10.—A statement that is regarded as unusually significant, in view of the repeated charges that the mormon church interferes in politics in Utah and Idaho, was made in the course of a sermon delivered by Apostle Hyrum Mack Smith at the conference Sunday. Apostle Smith is a son of President Smith and is the youngest member of the quorum of apostles.

He began by severely censuring the men who have been criticizing President Smith through the Utah newspapers. Though he mentioned no names, he unquestionably had reference to former Senator Frank Cannon and C. A. Smurthwaite.

Attacks Smith's Critics.
"The real murderers of Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were never punished," said Apostle Smith. "The real criminals are the writers and cartoonists who depict them as emperors and oppressors."

He then referred to Roosevelt as a brave man, who was compelled by the writers and cartoonists to travel with a guard of secret service men.

Continuing he said: "In President Roosevelt we have a friend and he has friends among the Latter Day Saints, and we will be true to him and true to old glory because we are a true people. President Roosevelt has the courage of his convictions and will not be moved by prejudice. He will give us a square deal. We will do all we can to sustain President Roosevelt, for we are true to him and we will demonstrate it in the future as we have proved it in the past."

Real Murderers Go Free.
J. Golden Kimball of the quorum of seventies made a savage attack on President Smith's critics, pronouncing them traitors to the church. "When you want to go to hell black your boots and go like a gentleman, not like a traitor," he said.

Sunday was the last day of the Mormon conference and it passed without the expected revolution concerning polygamy and church interference in politics and business. The silence of President Smith is taken to mean that the church leaders intend to pursue their course and to crush opposition as it develops.

RIOTING MARKED FIRST OF THE WEEK

In Chicago—The Montgomery Ward
Difficulties Increased When Freight Began to Move.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, Ill., April 10.—Rioting marked the renewal this morning of the attempts to move freight from Montgomery Ward & Co.'s to the railway freight-houses. Union teamsters defied a big escort of police and blocked the path of the wagons at every corner. Clubs were used to clear a passage and the defiant teamsters thrown into patrol wagons. Misses were hurled from windows at the police and non-union drivers, in some cases inflicting severe injuries. No united action is being taken by the express-drivers but several unions have authorized their business agents to call a strike. Thousands of drivers of express wagons may become involved. The employers' association threatens a petition for an injunction in case the express-drivers strike, on the grounds of interfering with interstate traffic.

MILES REPLIES TO THE DAVIS CLAIMS

Says He Never Handcuffed the Former President of the Confederacy.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Boston, April 10.—In an interview today General Miles denied anyone had ever handcuffed Jefferson Davis or mistreated the ex-president of the confederacy while he was a prisoner. He was charged by Mrs. Davis. He said: "The only irons ever put on Davis were light leg-irons put on by a civilian employee under orders from the war department. It was done while changes were being made in his quarters for the purpose of preventing Davis from injuring himself or any of his guards."

OIL CAR SET FIRE TO IN AN ACCIDENT

Burlington Freight Train Has a Bad
Accident at Lamoville,
Illinois.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, April 10.—A Burlington freight train struck an obstacle on the track near Lamoville, Ill., early this morning and was wrecked. An oil car back of the engine took fire and brakeman C. A. Johnson of Clinton, Ill., was burned to death. Engineer Gahbert of Fulton, Ill., and Fireman Wynnings of Carlin, Ill., were probably fatally burned.

SUBMARINES CHOICE OF THE OFFICERS

Fortifications Board Committee Declares That Strong Currents Render Contact Bombs Dangerous.

Newport, R. I., April 10.—The third committee of the fortification board, of which Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, U. S. N., is chairman, is devoting special attention to the dangers incident to the use of submarine mines and it is learned that in the forthcoming report emphasis will be placed on the advantage of substituting submarine boats for mines in harbor defenses.

Discussing this subject, a member of the committee said: "Mines cannot be relied upon in time of war. The trials given submarine mines in Narragansett bay resulted unsatisfactorily, due chiefly to the strong currents which sweep through the harbor and entrances to the bay, and make such defenses extremely dangerous. This is one of the important subjects that the fortification board has already taken up and will thoroughly examine during the inspection of fortifications and the land and floating defenses."

"The established fact that a number of the Russian warships were blown up by their own submarine mines and the present practice of England in discarding submarine mine defenses to a great extent in harbors where there are wide channels to defend and where the tides are strong, and placing there submarine boats, has added to the sentiment in favor of replacing mines with boats."

FILED OPINION IN THE BEEF SUITS

This Is Taken To Mean That The Grand Jury Has Found
Much Evidence.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
Chicago, Ill., April 10.—The mandate of the supreme court of the United States affirming the injunction of Judge Grosscup against the packers was placed on file here today for the first time. This action by Assistant Attorney General Pagan is taken as an indication that the grand jury has developed testimony showing the packers deliberately violated the injunction and that several will be cited for contempt of court.

OIL KING MAY FACE A TRIAL

Any Member Of His Church Has A Right To Insist Upon a Hearing.

CHURCH MANUAL PROVIDES A WAY

Allegation At The Boston Conference That the Oil Magnate Is Guilty Of Extortion, Is Sufficient.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]
New York, April 10.—If any member of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church formally calls attention to the fact that charges of extortion were made against John D. Rockefeller at the Boston conference of Congregational ministers the church must put Mr. Rockefeller on trial, and if the charges are found true it must expel him. The pastor of Mr. Rockefeller's church has no option in the matter. It is the Baptist law. On page 44 of the Baptist Church Manual is the following:

"The moral tone of the entire membership may be lowered by the bad example of one member.

"No opportunity should be afforded to one guilty of misdemeanors to shield himself behind some graver offender who remains in the church unrebuked.

"A further aim (of church discipline) is to save others in the church who may be tempted into sin or corrupted by the evil example of one already guilty."

Duty to Put Him on Trial.
It is the duty of the church, of its own motion, to put on trial any members who have been accused publicly of a misdeed of any character. The same obligation that rests upon the church as a whole rests upon each member as an individual.

This being the case, exponents of the Baptist doctrine declare the members of the Fifth Avenue church will not be faithful to the church law if they do not institute proceedings against Mr. Rockefeller at once. Aside from this, it is the imperative duty of Mr. Rockefeller, according to the law of the Baptist church, to demand an investigation.

No church is more rigorous in the scrutiny of the character of its members, or should be if the law of the church is adhered to, than the Baptist. The fact that charges against a member may be believed to be untrue does not excuse the church from pushing the investigation. Those persons who have made a study of church law and have followed the Rockefeller case from the beginning of the $100,000 gift controversy, are wondering whether the members of the Fifth Avenue congregation will meet the issue boldly or dodge it.

Oil King Not to Court Inquiry.
No one who knows Mr. Rockefeller and his dislike for notoriety believes he will court an investigation. It is more to his liking to be silent and let time heal his troubles.

No case which has developed in the Baptist church in recent years is considered of more importance than this one. In the eyes of the church all members are equal. If the Rockefeller matter is not brought to an issue now there is certain to be a recrudescence of the trouble later. It will be argued by unswerving advocates of the canonical law that members of the Fifth Avenue church are stultifying themselves by ignoring the facts.

Each Baptist church practically is independent and is the judge of its own members, but in a case so important and interesting as that of the richest man in the world not only other churches but also other denominations take upon themselves the right to counsel, suggest or criticize.

FLAMES STARTED THEATRE GOERS IN A PANIC SUNDAY

Fire In a Kokomo Playhouse Causes Men
And Women To Rush For The Exits.

Kokomo, Ind., April 10.—A fire in the upper balcony of the Sipe theater Sunday night, caused by the ignition of moving picture films, sent a streak of flame far back into the gallery, burning scores of persons, and caused a panic in which scores of others were injured.

Men and women fought and trampled over each other to reach the exits, scrambled over seats, and broke and jumped from windows. A youth leaped from a window in the upper balcony and probably will die.

More than 600 persons were in the audience and filled nearly every seat in the playhouse. The first act had ended and the moving picture machine was being used to amuse the audience while the scenery was being shifted. Suddenly the long roll of celluloid films used on the machine became ignited from contact with an electric light.

"Look out, everybody, the theater is on fire!" shouted the operator of the machine as the flames burst forth. They shot forward instantly along the celluloid and reached the roll, which was being unwound. Then came an explosion and a wild rush for the exits began.

As the blaze was seen in the darkened auditorium below a score of men cried "Fire!" and the 600 spectators in the three sections of the theater began a race for the exits. Albert Jacobs, 37 years old, broke through a large window in the upper gallery and leaped fifty feet to the ground.

His legs were broken and he received other injuries which, it is believed, will make his recovery impossible.

The flames burned themselves out, and in a few moments the danger was past. Those in the upper gallery, seeing this, did not join so wildly in the flight, but in the other parts of the theater the rush continued.

Leap Through Windows.
At the foot of the balcony stairs, where the first and second floor crowds met, the jam was so solid that many were knocked down and injured. Mrs. R. L. Jacobs and Clarence Hunt fell and were trampled on, being seriously injured. Several women fainted.

Every window on the first floor was opened or broken and scores leaped through these. Others scrambled over seats to reach the throng at the doors, and it was several minutes before all were outside. Mrs. Bert Jacobs, one of the women who fainted, is in a serious condition. The man most severely burned is Vance Hunt, who was sitting near the picture machine.

Panic in a Poorhouse.
Bay City, Mich., April 10.—In the destruction by fire Sunday of the Bay County poorhouse the thirty-eight inmates were thrown into a panic. Many ran out scantily clad. A paralytic weighing 200 pounds was rescued from the hospital in a wheelbarrow. The monetary loss was $7,000.

How to Pitch the Spit Ball

Jack Chesbro of the New York Americans Perfected the New Twirling Trick—Gives Ball "a Wabbling Motion"—Gossip of the Game.

"The spit ball is the most remarkable discovery in baseball science made within the past decade."

This statement was made recently by Clark Griffith, captain-manager of the New York Americans. The accompanying pictures are the first published showing the position of the fingers in throwing this remarkable ball.

"This new addition to the pitching art has come to stay," said Griffith, "and when it is got under control by pitchers other than Jack Chesbro I believe it will be the downfall of several of the game's greatest batters."

"While we all use the spit ball occasionally, Jack Chesbro is the only man who has thoroughly mastered it, and his record last season is evidence of its effectiveness. I am predicting this new curve, or, rather, shoot, and expect to see it extensively during the coming season. When a pitcher has it under perfect control, no batter can hit it successfully, and if he does line one out it will be purely accidental."

The much talked of spit ball was discovered by Jimmy Stricklett while in

JACK CHESBRO.

New Orleans the early part of last spring. Stricklett was at that time with Detroit, but failed to make good and was left in New Orleans. New Orleans let him go, but it is understood he will play with some team in the American association the coming season.

Chesbro Perfected Spit Ball.

While New York and Detroit were playing a practice game Stricklett used the ball, but could not control it well. Chesbro saw it and after observing how it was pitched began to develop it. He soon became master of the curve and used it with great effect throughout the season. He can make it curve in or out with almost perfect accuracy.

The spit ball derives its name from the fact that the tips of the first and second fingers are so moistened with saliva that they slip from the ball without friction.

"A Wabbling Motion."

Ordinarily these two fingers give the ball a spin that causes it to curve. In throwing the spit ball these fingers give no motion at all to the ball, but it leaves the thumb last, which gives it a peculiar wabbling motion, the ball suddenly shooting to one side or the other at the plate, greatly confusing the batter, who cannot follow it with his eye.

As will be seen from the accompanying illustrations, the ordinary pitched ball leaves the tips of the first and second fingers last, giving it the rotary motion which produces the ordinary curves.

The inward, outward and upshoot are all thrown in that manner. A ball leaving the left side of the forefinger will curve outward, and one leaving the right side of the second finger will curve inward.

One leaving the tips will take an upward shoot as it gets to the bat provided it is started spinning in a perpendicular manner.

The Thumb Does It All.

The spit ball is a direct violation of all these rules and gets its entire motion from the thumb. The ball gets its speed from the swing of the arm, and the wrist is not brought into action other than to guide the direction of the throw.

The batter has no opportunity to be forewarned of the coming spit ball, as it is held just the same as others before it leaves the pitcher's hand. This is one of its strongest points.

Bothered the Clevelanders.

The game in which Chesbro first used the ball to great advantage was against Cleveland early last season. Cleveland has some of the greatest hitters in the league, but they were mere playthings in the hands of Chesbro. They had never seen the spit ball before and could not fathom it.

Lajoie was struck out three times, and the whole team was badly "rattled." They made a sum total of four hits, none of which caused any damage, as there were no runners on bases. Chesbro also perfected the development of the rise or jump ball.

Chesbro in Great Shape.

Chesbro recently joined the Highlanders at Atlanta for practice. The great spit ball exposure was never in better condition to begin a season's work. He weighs 170 pounds as against 185 last year when he joined the team.

During his stay at Harvard Chesbro practiced several new stunts with a wet ball. He claims the spit ball and its variations will revolutionize pitching in the next few years.

"My arm is in better condition now," said Chesbro, "than it has been in six years. Last year I pitched more hard games than I ever did before in one season, which proves conclusively that the spit ball didn't injure my arm."

"The Harvard boys insisted on my using the spit, with the result that I broke one catcher's finger and another's wrist. Harvard has a much stronger team than last year, and I think the Cambridge boys will make a clean sweep this season."

Indiana University Affairs.

Coach Horne of the University of Indiana is beginning to get a line on his material. Some of the new men have not had a good chance to do much on account of the rush of college work attending the closing of the winter term, but they are now at work in earnest.

Robinson, Fox and Kercheval are among the most promising freshmen aspirants. Fox is showing up well in the outfield, and the other two are making a strong bid for infield positions.

The men thus far seem to be weak on hitting. The battery also lacks strength, as there are only two pitchers who have shown much force yet. Hunter and Wayne are good fielders, with well developed, but they are crude now.

Hyland and Neil.

"Fighting Dick" Hyland, who recently stood Frank Neil off for fifteen rounds, has just come out with an offer to fight Neil a second time, with the condition that the winner get all the purse, the loser receiving not a penny to reimburse him for the time and money spent in training. "I am so sure of whipping Neil if I get another chance that I would wager a million dollars," says Hyland. "I had Neil beaten until he landed that lucky punch in the fifteenth round. If Neil won't meet me a second time I am open to fight any man my weight in the world. I should like to get a crack at Eddie Hanlon."

Britt's Fighting Style.

Britt's method of fighting is all his own. He has a crouch that makes him hard to hit, and he constantly varies his style of attack. His movements are all lightning fast. The greatest factor in his success is his superb self confidence. He is always ready to tackle anything that wears fists. He never gives ground, but always keeps going in, with both fists going like trip hammers.

Jim Corbett Now Denies Gotch.

Jim Corbett has changed his tune in regard to Frank Gotch's chances as a fighter. The ex-champion now says that Gotch seems to be the only man before the public that wants Jeffries' game and that the fight fans are taking him seriously. Corbett says Gotch is doing the right thing in beginning at the bottom and that his course is bound to win him many friends.

The System Lives On Good, Rich Blood

People Who Lack the Proper Quantity and Quality of Blood Fall Victims to Every Disease That's Prevalent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

The blood is the medium through which every tissue, every organ is supplied with the material it feeds upon and rebuilds itself with. Take away that nourishment by letting the blood run down in quantity and quality, and you take away the power of an organ of tissue to resupply waste or rebuild itself. In other words, the system starves; color, appetite, steadiness, energy, vigor, vitality—all are lost and a condition of mental and physical prostration sets in. This condition Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills positively cure by their power to manufacture good, rich, nutritious, oxygen-carrying blood, a blood that carries to every organ the very material it lives and thrives upon.

Mr. George Horkins of Westinghouse Avenue, Wilmerding, Pa., says:

"I began to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills in Pittsburg. I was at the time badly run down, weak, nervous—could not eat—could not sleep. As my blood was thin, and did not sleep well. The medicine put me in splendid shape rapidly and easily, giving me steady nerves—a general feeling of energy and vigor and good rich blood that showed in the way my color came back. The medicine is certainly a grand one and I am only too glad to say so." 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, M. ## An Animal Story For Little Folks

NOT SO SIMPLE AS HE LOOKED

One day Deacon Skinner and Tom Rednose were leaning over the barnyard fence, chewing rye straws and talking about Deacon Skinner's horse, which he had recently purchased.

"Pretty fair, hey?" said the deacon. "Pretty fair for the price I give."

"No good," growled Tom. "Four white feet and a white nose knocks him in the head, and give him to the crows. Besides, he's simple, got no sense; jest' look at his eyes."

"Oh, you old rascal!" muttered the horse, though, of course, they didn't understand him. "I've more sense to-day than you have, for I know enough to keep away from the saloon, and you don't."

"But," continued Tom, not noticing the horse's interruption, "there's one good thing about him—he's so dumb and simple that he won't know enough to run away, and he has no teeth to bite. He's so thin you might make a hatrack of him, for he'll stand anywhere."

Deacon Skinner felt bad, but did not know what to do. "Leave him to me," said the horse. "Water's the best thing for him; he doesn't see much of it."

Making a spring toward the gate, he pushed it open, and before the astonished Tom could speak he grabbed him by the seat of his trousers and lifted him in the air. The good deacon caught him by the rope, but he pulled it from him and, running to the duck pond, dropped the kicking, struggling Tom into the water.

"Whoa, whoa!" yelled the deacon, running up, panting.

"All right, deacon," said the horse; "sorry to be impolite to your company, but there are some men whose manners need washing." And he trotted back home contentedly.—Atlanta Constitution.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

Judge Crocodile

There was a dispute between a wildcat and a young tiger as to who should smoke a cigar they found one day, and it was decided to leave the question to the crocodile.

"You both want this cigar?" said the crocodile.

"Yes," they replied together.

"I claim it because I have been a very good little fellow," said the tiger.

"And I claim it because I am a bad fellow to trifle with in a matter of this kind," said the wildcat.

"Very well," said the crocodile. "I will try the cigar, and if it is a good one I will give it to the tiger, and if it is a bad one I will give it to the wildcat."

Then he struck a match and lit the cigar and puffed away right merrily.

HE PUFFED AWAY RIGHT MERRILY.

Gradually the cigar was consumed while the two animals waited impatiently for the verdict. When the cigar became so short that it nearly burned the crocodile's mouth he said:

"My friends, it is impossible for me to tell whether this is a good cigar or a bad cigar, and, as there is nothing left of it now, your dispute may as well be forgotten. In the meantime if you find any more cigars, let me know, and I will smoke them for you." And with a merry laugh he plunged into the river and swam away.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Omaha, Neb., April 10.—Ulysses S. Sykes, a real estate man of this city, died while watching a vaudeville performance at the Orpheum theater. Mr. Sykes was evidently enjoying the performance, when suddenly he collapsed.

Names of Tennessee Towns.

Some of the names of towns upon which Tennessee bases claims for prestige: Barefoot, Boats, Leap Year, Chimney Top, Chuckluck, Half-Pone, Hanging Limb, Ipc, Marrowbone, Mouse Tail, Opossum, Parch Corn, Peanut, Rip Shin, Sweet Lips, Tom Brown, U Bet, Yum Yum, Buzzard Roost, Fly, Mashmunk, Peeled Chestnut, Shoo Fly, Skull Bone, Snail-lope, Tiger Tail and Wahoo.—Washington Times.

Dust Your Foliage Plants.

All plants which are grown for their foliage effect and which are, therefore, to be kept for any considerable time in the home, must receive attention at the tops as well as at the roots. In the cleanliness of houses dust will accumulate, and this, settling upon the leaves, blocks up the breathing pores of the plant. The only remedy is removal of the dust, to which end a sponging of clean water, say at least once a week, should be given.

Woman as Subject for Romancer.

Perhaps Balzac was the first to recognize that woman is the most important part of the human race for the romancer, and that in human society the woman is not always the female of the male.—Globe.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private life, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female diseases.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician. Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had suffered for over two years, and spent lots of money in medicine, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

A Bad Case of Stomach Trouble Yields to "Seven Barks."

ONE BOTTLE CURED IT.

Read what Mr. J. M. Pryor, of Huntsville, Ky., writes under date of November 3, 1903: "One bottle of Seven Barks cured me of a bad case of stomach trouble. It is certainly the best medicine in the world, and will do it all it is recommended for."

If one bottle of Seven Barks will cure a bad case of stomach trouble, two bottles will probably cure a chronic case of stomach trouble. We don't ask you to take our word for it. Our word won't cure you, but Seven Barks will. The only sure way to find out just what Seven Barks will do for you is to get a bottle and put it to the test. Mrs. Jones or Brown or Smith can't take it for you—that rests with you. It is a purely vegetable remedy and easy to take—the dose is small, the taste a pleasant one. We'll run all the risk if Seven Barks doesn't cure you. Deposit 50 cents with us and take a full-sized bottle home and try it; if it fails, bring back the empty or partly used bottle and we'll refund your half-dollar. We've sold Seven Barks too long to run such a risk, if it wasn't a positive cure for any ailment of the stomach. BADGER DRUG COMPANY.

MRS. E. HALL

No. 5

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

During the epidemic Renee had been so busily engaged that Tonti scarce had caught a glimpse of her. Now that her duties were lightened they often met, and standing together by the wooden ramparts of the fort, looked out across the river or down upon the town beneath them, talking with human life and activity. Tonti made no reference to their personal relations, but spoke of La Salle's return, his plans and the future prospects of the colony. Renee listened to him with interest, but the look of peace which she wore betrayed the fact that she was content with the present and satisfied at being there.

One morning a canoe was sighted coming up the river. On landing it was found to contain three members of La Salle's party, sent to reinforce the garrison of the fort, who bore a message from him to Tonti. In this La Salle related what he had accomplished, and informed Tonti that he had chosen to save time by journeying up the Ohio river on his way to Quebec instead of returning to Fort St. Louis and thence by way of the lakes, as he had originally intended. He appointed Tonti to command in his absence and sent messages of good-will to the Indian chiefs. He hoped to return by December and wished them all success in defending and holding the post. Tonti received the news of the further duration of his responsibility with a good grace, while Renee's features expressed no sorrow.

This state of peaceful happiness was not to last, however. Within two weeks another canoe appeared bringing a French officer from Quebec. He presented himself to Tonti as the Chevalier de Baugis, an officer of the king's dragoons, who bore an unwelcome letter for La Salle. Through this letter Tonti learned, much to his surprise, that Frontenac's enemies had so far prevailed as to procure his recall the previous autumn; that La Febrve de la Barre was now governor, a friend of Duchesneau and the other enemies of La Salle. He brought with him a commission as commanding officer of his majesty's fort, and orders for La Salle to surrender the command to him and report at once at Quebec. This was a severe blow. Tonti was not disposed to submit to his deposition gracefully.

"Monsieur le Chevalier de Baugis," he said as he handed back the commission, "the Sieur de La Salle is already on his way to Quebec in ignorance of the events that have taken place there. He is therefore not here to receive the commands of the new governor. My authority is received from Sieur de La Salle, and to him alone am I answerable for the safety of this fortress. He will undoubtedly forward his wishes to me at the earliest opportunity. Until I receive word from him I cannot resign my command to any one. I can but regard you as an officer of the king, whose presence may be of assistance, and my guest."

The chevalier was greatly angered at this unexpected resistance, but Tonti remained firm, and left him after showing him the lodge that was accorded to him as his residence. The next day, although his anger had vanished, he displayed a surly demeanor. He received Tonti's courtesies ungraciously and spent his time in writing out a lengthy complaint of his subordination of the commander he found in charge, which he purposed sending to Quebec at the earliest opportunity. As no messenger was directly available, he contented himself with viewing the work already accomplished with a contemptuous air, that expressed his contempt of everything. His ideas were those gained from experience in civilized warfare. The necessities of campaigns carried on against a savage foe he knew nothing about.

The Indians did not take kindly to the new representative of the great king and viewed his contemptuous attitude with much disfavor. The men under Tonti had learned to have a great enthusiasm for their commander, and when they were informed of the newcomer's evasive murmurs of dissatisfaction were heard mingled with muttered threats of mutiny in case he took command. Tonti quieted these outbreaks as well as he could and endeavored to treat him with the attention due his position as his guest. He took pains to walk about the fort pointing out the reasons for the various devices used in the fortifying of the place, and explaining, in a measure, the plans made by La Salle for the maintenance and improvement of the colony. They were thus engaged one morning when Renee passed near them on her return from the town below. The chevalier followed her with admiring gaze.

"Sacre!" he exclaimed to Tonti, pulling hard on his mustache. "What a beautiful woman! Whence comes she? It is a pity for one so lovely to waste her life going about in such a garb."

"She is one sent by the king to Quebec," said Tonti coldly. "She is devoted to her work and has proved of invaluable assistance to us in tending the sick."

"Ma foi!" continued his companion, "I should not mind being ill with such a nurse."

Pompon took a violent dislike to the man from the first and kept his eye on him at all times. One day he came to Tonti with a troubled face, and reported that he had twice that day seen the chevalier attempt to speak to Renee when he met her. That the second time she had been forced to run into her lodge to escape his attention. Tonti was greatly enraged, but sought out Renee and asked her in regard to the encounter. She, not wishing to be the cause of increasing the perplexities of the situation, made light of the matter and begged him not to make any move in the affair, as the chevalier was not likely to repeat the discourtesy. Tonti yielded a reluctant consent, but resolved upon a sharp line of action in case the offense occurred again. Pompon, realizing the position of Tonti, determined to act for himself if need be. He took the young Sieur de Boisronde into his confidence, who was the devoted friend of Tonti and who worshipped the fair Renee from a distance. These two zealous allies watched carefully for several days without discovering any cause for interfering. At length the sharp eye of Pompon caught sight of the figure of the chevalier lounging near Renee's lodge in such a spot that he would have to pass near him on her return. Soon she appeared, and the young officer with a sweeping bow sought to engage her in conversation, but she pushed hurriedly by without looking at him. He strove to detain her by touching her arm. She uttered a slight cry of alarm and fled.

That night the chevalier was sitting in his lodge, which was lighted by a pine knot. His scanty writing material lay on the table before him. The composition he was making evidently was an effort, for he stopped, scowled, and bit his quill at every few words. "A Louis d'or for a rhyme to 'donnee,'" he muttered. A knock aroused him and the Sieur de Boisronde entered.

"Pardon my intrusion, chevalier," he began hurriedly but determinedly, "but I have a word of warning for you."

Baugis looked up in surprise. "What warning can one of the men whose commander I shall shortly be give to me?" he asked haughtily.

"Tis this," resumed de Boisronde, quietly: "you have come here and are suffered to remain as the guest of our commander, the only commander we recognize, M. le Capitaine Tonti. You have publicly behaved in a manner discourteous to him. His men, his Indian allies, are devoted to him. If they should become incensed I could not answer for their conduct."

"Has your precious leader sent you here with this threat?" was the sneering inquiry. "Why does he not come in person? I shall not hurt him."

"He knows nothing about my errand," was the quiet reply. "There is another matter I would speak of to you."

"Ma, toi! more offenses! Go on; I suppose I am a schoolboy and must be reprimanded."

"You have been seen endeavoring to force distasteful attentions upon the young donnee."

"Parbleu!" broke in Baugis angrily. "Am I to be held accountable for my every act in this wilderness? What if I choose to speak to a pretty face? Who but the priests are there who will rebuke me?"

"Another such action and you will have to deal with Capitaine Tonti. I warn you it will not seem a small matter in his eyes."

"So, mon Dieu! this mighty capitaine of yours will interfere, will he? Pray tell me by what right he assumes to be my censor? Is he her brother? or husband? or—"

The speaker did not finish; the smirk upon his face suddenly faded away. During the conversation a small figure climbed noiselessly in through the window behind him. As he was speaking he suddenly felt the cold impress of a gun muzzle placed against the back of his neck and he heard a voice that chilled him with the grim determination in its tone. "Finish that sentence" or make a single move and I shall blow your body to the four corners of the room and your soul to hell. Take up your pen and write. Say that you agree to behave with all due respect to your host, that you will cease forever all attempts to communicate with the donnee or to annoy her in any way, and that you will bear no malice to either of them nor towards the two of us present now."

The man, although brave, could not repress a shudder at his predicament, and after a moment's hesitation wrote as commanded, and signed his name with a flourish. "Hand it to me over your shoulder," continued the voice. When he did so the weapon was removed and he turned quickly about to see the form of Pompon standing behind his chair.

Before a word could be said by any one a knock was heard at the door and Tonti entered. "I was just making my rounds for the night, chevalier, and I stopped to see if—here his eyes fell upon Baugis' companions and he paused in wonderment."

"I have been receiving some of your friends and have been entertained by their conversation," the officer began blandly. "They have doubtless come from you, as their errand was in your interest. They have procured a little writing from me by means which, though unpleasant, have been effective."

Tonti, still more astonished, seeing the paper in the hands of Pompon, took it and read the contents. He flushed, and raising his eyes to Baugis, said earnestly:

"I trust, chevalier, that you do not believe me to be a party to this proceeding. My misguided friends have taken far different measures than I should have done. But since the matter has been under discussion I will say that my desire as to the young donnee is that you carry out the spirit of what you have written here. But to show you that I put the matter on an entirely different footing, behold, I release you from your word!"

and thrusting the paper in to the flame, he allowed it to burn. "I will exact no promise, but will say simply this: The donnee is a young woman of quality; as a gentleman of France you may realize that any further attempts at annoyance or attention will give the lie to your claim of gentility. If these feelings do not influence you, know well that I am inclined to guard her person from danger and her mind from unhappiness. Should you persist further, I doubt not but two swords can be found about the fort that will determine the matter between us. I have no fear as to the result; you were in Paris at the time I vanquished the Comte de Miron. I do not believe you to be a better swordsman than he."

The chevalier stared in astonishment at this speech. He muttered at the close, "Parbleu! I recollect. You killed the Comte de Miron!" Then suddenly his face changed. The flush of anger died away, and, rising slowly, he approached Tonti.

"Capitaine Tonti, you have shown me my fault," he said humbly. "I have a thousand pardons to beg of you for my conduct since my arrival. Your attitude in everything has been commendable. Your last alternative has no force with me. A brave foe demands one's admiration. That you are brave I well know. A generous enemy commands one's respect. That you are generous you have shown by the destruction of my written promise. Let me be rivals no longer; may we not be friends?" And with an engaging smile the young man thrust forth his hand impulsively. His voice rang true, and Tonti grasped the proffered evidence of good-will.

"Let us rule here conjointly," continued Baugis, "you as the representative of La Salle and the active commander; I as the representative of the king, commander only in name, for I find I have much to learn before I can take over the full responsibility. And as for your faithful friends," turning to Pompon and Boisronde, "their zeal in their superior cause is worthy of my thanks. God grant I find such faithful ones always around me."

Tonti was about to reply when a sound of shouting was heard in the yard of the fort and he heard his name called. Soon the sound of running steps was heard shuffling over the hard ground, the voices came nearer, the door burst open, and the figure of a young chief darted into the room. Blood streamed down his breast from a fearful wound, while a gasp across his head showed that he had been scalped. He stopped before Tonti an instant. "The Iroquois!" he cried. Having delivered his message, he swayed, fell to the floor, and after one convulsive shudder lay still.

New Strength— Increased Vigor.

It is easy to get into a run down state and stay that way and forget what real health is. We never appreciate real health when we have it.

After feeling all run down, nervous and tired out, month after month, most people simply hope against hope that they will feel better soon.

Instead of trying to do something to help themselves feel better, they depend on hope.

The only way to really help yourself is to get new strength and increased vigor.

Win back your right to feel strong and well every day.

A well person ought to wake up with a laugh every morning.

Health, vigor, determination, courage—in fact, all that makes life worth living depends upon a healthy supply of Nerve Force.

Paine's Celery Compound builds up the supply of Nerve Force, it revives the old force and makes new. It not only does this, but by strengthening the nerves that control all the organs of the body, it cures the real cause of headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, malaria, and the many diseases coming from a run down condition of the nerves.

Gertrude Jenkins allowed herself to gradually sink into nervous prostration, one of the final states that tired, abused nerves reach. Her experience is valuable to all those who feel "run down," "tired out" and are not helping themselves to get back to real health.

"Paine's Celery Compound cured me of nervous prostration when I was so weak and used up that I had to lie down part of each day. The doctor advised me to go away and take a vacation to build up, but I could not give the time or money. Paine's Celery Compound built me up within two weeks, my headaches disappeared, my appetite returned and the aches and pains gave way to new strength, life and increased vigor. I enjoy perfect health to-day and used less than five bottles of Celery Compound, so know by experience how valuable it is."—Gertrude Jenkins, 714—62 St. Chicago, Ill. (Member Ladies of the Maccabees.)

"Nervousness," "nervous prostration," "nerve decline," that run-down, worn-out feeling, nine times in ten are simply the result of prejudice, carelessness, or ignorance.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth University, was the first physician to enunciate the principle which to-day is recognized as one of the foundations of the science of medicine—the great enlightening truth, that the nerve system rules all the body's health.

He sought and found the food that builds up and restores the nerves—his celery formula, which has become famous as Paine's Celery Compound—the celebrated nerve vitalizer and tonic.

Paine's Celery Compound is giving New Nerve Force to thousands every day by feeding and restoring the nerves to their full strength. It never fails to build up the run down system to full, ruddy health.

Two days' treatment proves its marvelous power. It braces you up. You feel better at once.

Sick headache, palpitation, dizziness, and heartburn are usually relieved by a single dose of Paine's Celery Compound.

For over 18 years Paine's Celery Compound has been the most universally used nerve vitalizer and tonic in the world.

Remember this—Paine's Celery Compound is the prescription of one of the most famous physicians this country has ever known, and all reputable Druggists sell and recommend it.

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. REEDER, Ph. D., M. D.
La Porte, Ind.

LA GRIPE.

There appears to be an epidemic of the influenza called "la gripe," and many deaths are reported, especially in the east. In fact, the onslaught of the disease seems to be more fatal than when it first appeared in this country several years ago. A description of the malady is hardly necessary, as most of my readers have undoubtedly become more familiar with the symptoms than they care to be. One thing can be said of the disease: It is no respecter of persons. Rich and poor alike come under its influence and are alike laid low. Only one class of people are immune, and they are those whose stomach, lungs, heart and skin are in perfect health. Upon these it can secure no foothold. This points us to prevention. During times of epidemics of this kind, the treatment given for the cure of catarrh should be practiced by everybody, whether sick or well, and this will be a wonderful stride in the direction of prevention, as it benefits the heart, lungs, air passages, mucous surfaces, and the circulation. The next precaution is in the care of the skin. Now to put it in perfect condition to resist attacks of disease I have on several occasions explained, but as many will read this article who did not see those previously published, I will again briefly state the method:

White wine vinegar, just strong enough to cause a very slight smarting, should be well heated, say, about a pint of it, and if a teaspoonful of salt be added so much the better. The temperature of the room should be such that the nude body is not uncomfortable. Thoroughly sponge the entire body; even the head will be all the better if it is also included, and its cleansing, purifying, antiseptic action will be perfect. Dry the body by patting gently with a warm, soft towel, and then again go over the entire surface with a thorough inunction of almond or olive oil, vaseline, goose grease, or hen oil. I speak of these last two because in many country homes they are to be had when the former and preferred lubricants are not easily secured. But, no matter which is used, it should first be heated, and then carefully rubbed into the skin, gently manipulating so that it may be absorbed and enliven every inch of the surface. This may be repeated every night if desired, but it will probably not be necessary to thus treat the skin oftener than once every three days, and if the treatment is extended to the head, care should be taken in protecting the scalp at night with a close-fitting cap or other covering that will not come off during sleep, and then the oil and vinegar should be thoroughly washed out of the hair on arising in the morning, using warm, soft water, if it is to be had, and a good scalp soap and rinsing well in cold, soft water to finish. Then dry the scalp thoroughly before going into the open air, or otherwise a cold, which may bring on the very condition we are seeking to avoid, may be taken.

If, however, the disease has already obtained a foothold then other and additional means must be adopted. The treatment given for severe colds will usually prove effectual if the case is promptly taken in hand, and the patient is sensible enough to remain indoors, and, better still, in bed. If there is fever, the fomentation to the feet, and gentle but not excessive cooling to the spine will prove beneficial. Do not keep the room above the usual heat. The patient will sometimes complain of cold, although the clinical thermometer shows him to have fever. This is caused by a congestion of the blood to the center of vital organs and closing of the pores. Hot ginger tea will quickly relieve this condition, and if the skin treatment is used it will not be likely to recur, although those who have studied these articles will remember that where fever is evident, inunction of the entire body with oil of any kind will increase it. Therefore this part of the treatment should be confined to the back only. Constipation must be avoided, and the diet should be of a character that will not aggravate the difficulty; dry, toasted, whole wheat bread, with hot milk, will be found gratifying to the appetite and very wholesome. A daily dose of about one to two grains of pure red pepper will be of great value in both warding off an attack of grip and in preventing its progress after it has already developed. If you have no way of weighing the pepper the quantity should be about the size of a navy bean. It may be taken in a teaspoonful of milk or in a No. 5 capsule. One hundred No. 5 capsules can be purchased at a drug store for from 15 to 25 cents, and five cents worth of red pepper will fill them, making a very cheap and effective remedy.

CLUB NOTES.

I have a letter from a Miss E. J. W., in which the address is given as Florida, Mass. As a private reply was required, I promptly answered by letter, which was returned by the postal authorities, saying there was no such office in the state named. Will Miss W. please send correct address? C. G. will receive an answer when he gives his name and address. Initials will not answer.

Croswell—Dr. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.: When I first received literature respecting the Home Health club inviting me to join it, I was very suspicious, as there are so many advertisers pretending to cure all the ills flesh is heir to, with their wonderful remedies. But since joining the club and receiving volume one and some of the club lectures, I have changed my mind very much and can heartily agree with all you have written, therefore I feel like recommending the Home Health club to others, and as I contemplate going to California soon I would like to have at least 15 or 20 of the invitation slips to hand out during my three months' stay to parties who might be interested. My record number is 10,458. I am always glad to supply anyone with printed matter describing the club and its great work. By giving out the invitations to join the club, first marking them with the record number, many members of the club have been able to secure all of the other club books free of expense and I hope you will do as well.

Van Wert, Minn.—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind. Dear Sir: Allow me to acknowledge my interest in the Home Health club, for which I especially like this paper. Seeing your many recommendations for relief of others has led me to write you for information. Sometimes I think my kidneys cause the sickening pain in my back and again I attribute it to constipation. Lying flat on my back now fails to relieve and am not much rested in the morning. I shall be very grateful for any suggestion leading toward a relief. When working at overhead work, with both hands up and head thrown back, such as paper-hanging, I get a knock-out pain at base of neck between the shoulders which takes some time to overcome. I should like to add my mite to the simple cures given in club notes. Aristol (a powder resembling powdered resin), sparingly rubbed on, cured when the doctor failed, a case of ivy poisoning. Yours truly, S. F.

The good old-fashioned herb remedy which our grandmother used to make and called compound genital syrup would be about the best general remedy for your kidneys, stomach and the constipation that I could recommend. The formula for making it has been so frequently given that it is unnecessary to repeat it. For the pain in the back of the neck I would suggest Osteopathy. Your cure for ivy poisoning is a new but safe one. Aristol is a common remedy used by all physicians and is not at all expensive. Any druggist can supply it.

Selden—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind. Dear Doctor: I have for a long time wanted to write to you and thank you for the book of lectures received some time ago. I also received the volume two all right last winter, and procured the herbs which you suggested. Had previously secured volume one. I was very weak when I commenced the Home Health club system. I first noticed my strength coming back slowly and I was a great deal stronger last summer and was able to do my work and have kept pretty well this winter, so far, thanks to you. As I have not seen in any of your lectures advice in regard to diet for expectant mothers, I wish you would please give some of your future lectures on that subject. There are so many women who think they are compelled to eat so much during that interesting period, regardless of what it is. Few of them know that wheat bread cakes or pastry is very bad and should be eaten very sparingly, as it is too ossifying, and makes labor very painful. More fruit should be eaten, although too much of it might be harmful. Your formula for the "Mothers' Cordial" is very good. Squawvine alone, made like tea, and a half cupful taken morning and night is also very beneficial. I am sorry to take up so much of your time to read this, but we all like to help a little and you have given your life to help others, for which you will receive much blessing. I hope you will give this important matter in one of your lectures before long. Wishing you success and a long life, I remain, very truly yours, Mrs. H. J.

Letters like the above give me great satisfaction. It has been truly said that the work of a reformer is seldom profitable, but that must have been said by some one who thought that money was the only kind of profit worth working for, when, as a matter of fact, the only ambition in life worth striving for, is to be of service to others. A certain amount of money is necessary in these days, but it is certain that those who pile up vast wealth and die hated by their fellow men, have made a failure of life. They can take none of the gold with them, but the gratitude of those who are benefited by helpful works will continue as long as my books and lectures are read. I will gladly take up the subject mentioned and will as soon as possible make suggestions in a lecture in this paper.

Readers of this paper are at liberty to write for information on subjects pertaining to health. All communications should be addressed to Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind., and must contain name and address in full and at least four cents in postage. No attention paid to letters not fully signed, giving address.

LaPorte, Ind., April 10.—As the result of a conference held with Governor Hanly at Indianapolis steps will probably be taken to establish a penal farm in LaPorte or Stark counties. The proposition is to have the state erect buildings and to utilize the labor of several hundred convicts in the reclamation and cultivation of thousands of acres of land in what is known as the Kankakee country.

WHY A PERSON GETS SLEEPY

Several Explanations Any One of Which Seems to Be Reasonable.

Scientists disagree as to the cause of drowsiness. Some curious and remarkable reasons are assigned for the desire everybody has for sleeping. It is attributed by some people as an accumulation in the system of the poisonous products of the wear and tear of the body during the day. There seems to be some measure of truth in this, says the New York Herald, for in many diseases the patients are often sleepless. Another hypothesis is that the nerve cells of the brain dwell apart from each other, as it were, during sleep. The brain is composed of millions of tiny bodies called cells, each having several delicate prolongations, or branches, for the purpose of communicating with other cells. When the brain is fully active all these cells are in contact, or ready to be in contact, with one another, but the time occasionally comes, it is thought, when the branches of all the cells curl up, and their isolation means that complete communication between the cells ceases. The state of body and mind that follows is what we call sleep.

The most probable explanation of sleep, however, is that in some way or other the internal condition of the cells is changed, partly from exhaustion and partly because of diminished stimulation from other parts of the body.

CLERK WAS DISCERNING.

He Must Have Been Very Smart to Have Made Such a Discovery.

Many funny things happen at the naturalization bureau. The clerks have all they can do sometimes to preserve their dignity while listening to the answers given by the men who are anxious to cast their first vote for president of the United States. The New York Times gives two incidents which caused a smile.

A little man with a red beard stood in line. When the court clerk asked him if he would promise to support the constitution of the United States, he hesitated, and then said: "I support my mother-in-law, too, since I come on this country."

An Italian, who was the next candidate, was asked where he was born. He bowed politely to the clerk, and, smiling, said:

"My brud' he been here five-a-year, too, he can't speak-a no good like-a me. Many peop' he-a tink like-a you, me-a American. Pleas' men take-a me for born Unit' State."

"Well," returned the clerk, "I don't think you were born in the United States. From your talk I thought you were born in Italy."

"You-a smart-a man you-a guess-a dat," replied the Italian.

CARPETS CURTAINS

Just now many people are interested in carpets and curtains. House cleaning is being done a little earlier than usual this year and it reminds many people of the fact that things will wear out.

CARPETS

It is a Satisfaction

to know that when one comes to The Big Store the largest assortment of Carpets and Curtains in Wisconsin, excepting Milwaukee only, is before one. This store gets much free advertising through merchants who claim, with a bluster, that they show the largest stocks, or are leaders in this or that line. Such statements only emphasize the Greatness, Completeness and Newness of The Big Store's Stocks. The great public are "wise" as regards stocks of dry goods, ready-to-wear garments, curtains, carpets; have shopped around Janesville too many times not to know how many things cannot be found outside of this store:

CARPETS CURTAINS

These stocks are now at their best. If you have a want in either line do not neglect your best interests by not seeing our immense stocks and getting our Prices.

About Making Carpets.

All of this talk about hand work being superior to machine sewing comes about in this way: Carpet sewing machines cost from $100 to $225, and the volume of business done by the smaller houses does not warrant their investing so much money. Why do such houses as Marshall Field & Co., W. and J. Sloane of New York, and up-to-date merchants everywhere, whose business is large, use machines entirely? The real fact is, machines make a better seam than can be made by hand. It's old-fogyism to argue against carpet sewing machines.

Another improvement that we have installed is the new way of showing large rugs. They are suspended from the ceiling, move on a track, and one can see 100 rugs in ten minutes.
